

Barbara G. Werther Member

Mobile: 703.819.7890

Office: 703.547.4692

Fax: 240.912.3031

Barbara@werthermills.com

www.werthermills.com

BIO

Barbara litigates claims on behalf of owners, general contractors and subcontractors in federal and state courts and before arbitral tribunals. Barbara also drafts and negotiates construction and architect contracts for developers and construction contracts for contractors. Notwithstanding that her training and experience is as a litigator, her principal goal is to assist clients in finding a path to resolve issues, eliminate disputes and to find sensible solutions to complicated legal issues. Separately, in the same vein, she is also trained as a mediator and arbitrator, she is on the AAA neutrals panel, and performs those services when requested either through the AAA or ad hoc.

She also routinely represents government contractors in claims against the federal government. This includes performance and payment bond disputes; and representing government contractors in bid protests and claims at the various Boards of Contract Appeals and at the Court of Federal Claims.

Barbara graduated magna cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania and received her juris doctor degree from George Washington University. She co-founded the Women in Construction, Inc. organization, a 501(c)(6) corporation and served as president of the annual conference from 2006 to 2021. In 2018, she served as the president of the Construction Lawyers Society of America, and remains a Fellow. Since 2016, she has been a Fellow of the American College of Construction Lawyers and participated on its Board of Governors from 2019 to 2023. Chambers has ranked her since 2008. She has been selected to SuperLawyers from 2006 to the present. From 2016 to 2018, she was chair of Division 13, Government Construction Contracts, of the ABA Forum on the Construction Industry, and in that capacity edited a recent ABA publication, Federal Government Construction Contracts. She has been on the faculty of the National Institute of Trial Advocacy ("NITA") and also on the faculty of the ABA Division 13 Trial Advocacy Program.

Barbara served on the Board of the Leukemia Ball in Washington, D.C. and on the American Heart Association Golf Committee. Since 1984, she has been on the Trustees' Council of Penn Women. She served as an editor for Jacquelyn Dickey's book, The Dash; and created and endowed the Ann E. Kelley Memorial Scholarship at the University of Pennsylvania. Barbara was recently selected as a finalist for the 2026 Heroines of Washington Awards benefitting March of Dimes.

ADMITTED IN VA & DC

RECENT CASES:

- Obtained an arbitration award for a developer client that reimbursed the client for 100% of its costs incurred beyond the Builder's Risk payment for a flood caused by a general contractor's subcontractor in a newly-renovated hotel.
- Obtained an arbitration award for a contractor against a developer due to the developer's architect's defective design. The developer recovered nothing on its breach of contract counterclaim.
- Obtained a favorable arbitration award in a case involving deep excavations and slurry walls.
- Overturned a termination for default of a subcontractor resulting in nominal damages for defaulting prime contractor.

PUBLICATIONS

- Author in first edition, and all subsequent editions as recently as 2026, Construction Law Handbook, "Terminations" (4th ed. 2021).
- Editor, "Federal Government Construction Contracts," Third Edition, 2017
- Co-author, "Todd Construction v. United States: Navigating Performance Evaluation Claims in the Court of Federal Claims," The Construction Lawyer, Winter 2015
- Co-author, "Navigating the Buy America Act in Federal Transit Authority Funded Contracts," Under Construction, American Bar Association, March 2014
- "How Non-U.S.-Owned Companies Can Compete for Federal Government Contracts," ConstructionWebLinks.com, March 24, 2010