BIO

After attending Duke University as an undergraduate, Ema studied at the George Washington University Law School on a merit scholarship and graduated with honors, earning Order of the Coif for finishing in the top 10-percent of her class. She first joined Werther & Mills as a 1L summer associate in 2022.

After graduating from law school, Ema clerked for the Honorable Kathryn C. Davis at the United States Court of Federal Claims in Washington, DC for two years, hearing cases and drafting opinions in civil suits against the federal government. Following her clerkship, Ema returned to Werther & Mills as an associate.

In addition to practicing law, Ema competes internationally in the equestrian sport of three-day eventing. She has been long-listed for two Olympic Games and two World Championships.

Ema lives in Clarksburg, MD, with her wife, a small animal veterinary surgeon, and their little dog, Westley.
